

Poetry for the Neon Apocalypse

16429 EL Camino Real Apt. #7
Houston, Texas 77062-5786
Tel: (832) 523-0191
www.transcendentzeropress.org

by Jake Tringali

Cover design by Jake Tringali
Cover Art by Jessica Rizkallah

Jake Tringali

July 2016 | 6" x 9"
Trade paperback | $12.95 plus tax
ISBN-13: 978-1946460035
Library of Congress Control Number: 2018945334

CONTACT: Dustin Pickering
Editor@transcendentzeropress.org
(832) 523-0191

Available from Amazon,
Barnes and Noble, and other retail outlets

POETRY FOR THE NEON APOCALYPSE, the first full length collection from Boston poet Jake Tringali, is a mysterious reflection on the life process. Written with an intellectual punk rock attitude, we are led through scientific concepts, dives and hangouts, lustful abandon, and openness to new experiences. Many of these poems are published in independent journals.

"Dark and futuristic, Jake Tringali's debut is a cosmic collection that is both out of this world and soberingly urban in equal measure"

Sam Rose, Peeking Cat Poetry Magazine

"Jake's first book Poetry for the Neon Apocalypse is equal parts punk, prophecy, and poetry. Jake puts a strong chokehold throughout. Check out this book, it is really a great read. A book for your inner anarchist. I love this book."

Jason Wright, Oddball Magazine

About the Author

JAKE TRINGALI was born in Boston, lived up and down the East Coast, and then up and down the West Coast. He runs rad restaurants and thrives in a habitat of bars, punk rock shows, and a sprinkling of burlesque performers. Throughout 2015, publications include Catch & Release, Boston Poetry Magazine, Indiana Voice Journal, and twelve other fine journals.

###